CONTINUITY OF SUPPLY: CRITICAL ALWAYS IN GOOD ECONOMIC TIMES AND BAD

Judith A. Baranowski
Director
AlixPartners, LLP
Chair, ISM Ethical Standards Committee
Member, ISM Committee on Sustainability and Social Responsibility

This session will cover challenges of continuity of supply, both domestically and internationally, due to lengthening supply chains, quality needs and the current economic climate. Numerous real-life stories and examples will be a part of this presentation. Plenty of time will be reserved for audience questions and answers and discussion.

Judy Baranowski has been practicing supply chain management for over thirty years. She is currently a director at AlixPartners LLP, a global turnaround and restructuring consulting business that works with clients to fix operating and financial problems with quick results. Prior to joining AlixPartners, Judy was Chief Procurement Officer at Motorola leading the teams responsible for a $25B global spend. Prior to her CPO role, Judy was Corporate Vice President for Supply Chain Quality at Motorola. Judy has also held executive level supply chain positions at AlliedSignal (now Honeywell) and Eaton as well as procurement and materials management roles at ITT Automotive, TRW and Ford Motor Company.

In total, Judy's six years experience in turnaround consulting coupled with twenty-seven years of operating experience enables her to bring a practical approach to implementing solutions that drive superior and sustained results.

Judy is a member of ISM and currently serves as the chair for ISM's Ethical Standards Committee as well as being a member of ISM's Committee on Sustainability & Social Responsibility. She is also a member of the Turnaround Management Association and the International Women's Insolvency and Restructuring Consortium.
